NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

I was saddened this past week to hear of the death of Brian McGean who was a tireless community worker and manager of the Princess Credit Union - our condolences go out to his wife Rayanne and his extended family... Condolences also go out to the many members of last week's tragic shooting spree in Nova Scotia - It's hard to fathom what goes through a person's mind to be able to commit such wanton acts of violence and in some cases, absolutely random victims - it will take a long time to get over and recover from such a tragedy - I particularly liked the Nova Scotia tribute and the many musicians who took part Natalie MacMaster's performance was especially touching and poignant and brought a tear to many eyes....Check out the story in Tuesday's Cape Breton Post about Albert Bonnar and Bonnar's Meats - it is a story of innovation and business entrepreneurship.... Cape Bretoners are a very sociable people and we miss communicating with our friends and family..... one area I can't really understand is the restriction on outdoors and especially fishing - I am an avid fisherman and when fishing I am not near anybody and naturally if you are out in a boat, there is no one around for a thousand yards, I don't understand the logic of restricting such activities now that the weather is starting to get warmer..... and the children are finding it harder to stay indoors all day and I hope playgrounds and parks will open soon - parents and children would abide by the social distancing restrictions without too much prompting... K-LEE RADIO is in the process of planning several free outdoor concerts to celebrate our liberation - they will be held in several local CBRM public spaces - keep reading our paper to find out when one is coming to your area..... It will take some time before we begin to publish a paper copy again, I think it will be in July before the businesses, libraries, Legions, Fire halls and church halls are open to the public - I can't wait - I really miss being out in the public and communicating with our readers - till then, stay safe and observe the COVID-19 guidelines - Glen

The Fake Treasure Map

Kids love to play practical jokes on one another. I particularly like this one as the tables were turned. My younger brother had a fascination with pirates and played at being a pirate all the time. He even had an eye patch and fake sword.

He came to me and asked if I could make him a fake treasure map on my computer and make it look real. I got some parchment paper, wrinkled it up a bit and smeared some dirt on it to make it look old. I had placed some directions on it around our bungalow in East Bay. Of course, I marked several "hot spots" with x's indicating a treasure was buried there.

My brother showed the map to all the kids around our bungalow. Some were skeptical but a few really thought the map was real. To play a trick on my brother, I buried a couple of tin boxes I got at the dollar store and put old coins and tokens in them.

My brother thought it would be a great joke to sell the map to one of the unsuspecting kids. One offered him two dollars for the map and my brother took it with a smile. Several of the boys went looking for the treasure and came back after about a half hour running with the box of old coins. They brought it to me and asked what did I think it was worth.

Pretending to examine the "treasure" I said I was sure it was valuable. The look on my brother's face was priceless. When the kids found the second treasure, my brother was beside himself. He offered four dollars for the map, then five dollars and finally ten dollars.

In the meantime, I had tipped off the original buyer of the map and he was only too glad to get his money back and eight dollars profit. I let my younger brother dig all day looking for the additional treasure. When he finally came home at night exhausted by all the digging, he vowed to get up early and find the remaining treasure.

I took pity on him and told him what I had done. He got really mad and stormed out of the living room and went to bed. However, in the morning, after he had a good sleep, he laughed it off and thought it was funny.

I never gave it much thought after that until last week when my nephew ran up to me with a treasure map saying he was going hunting pirate treasure.

I smiled and looked at my brother. He was beaming with the memory of Capt. Kidd's treasure.

I was looking back at some albums that were surprises; this one was Cyndi Lauper's last album to date and with "Detour" some people found it odd that she'd do an entire album of old style country and western songs, but remember Cyndi's first album was called "She's So Unusual". A common thread in country songs is the 'here in the real world' observations, and some of the lyrics of Cyndi's biggest hits like "money changes everything" and "after the working day is done, girls just wanna have fun" had that link to the average Jane or Joe. To open the concert tour for this album Cyndi went right to the heart of the matter-Nashville's legendary Ryman auditorium, and on May 9 of 2016 she blew the roof off the place with her versions of country standards-all are included here; on Patsy Cline's "Walkin' After Midnight" Cyndi's voice is captivating, and her take on Ray Price's "Heartaches by the Number" is one of the freshest versions that's been done in years. Even with saying how good those songs were, her breathtaking take on Skeeter Davis's "The End of the World" is the best song here, as Cyndi's voice cradles the song like a gentle flower. To further back up Cyndi's star status she's pulled out some of the big guns in country music to support this album; Vince Gill jumps on the bandwagon for the light-hearted love song "You're The Reason Our Kids Are Ugly", the 'red-headed stranger' Willie Nelson duets with Cyndi on the bluesy song "Night Life", and Alison Krauss joins Cyndi on the classic Dolly Parton song "Hard Candy Christmas". Emmylou Harris also does a vocal two-step duet with Cyndi on the album's namesake song

"Detour" (which was actually written in 1945 and is considered a Western swing song) and Jewel swings by for a do-se-do on "I Want To Be A Cowboy's Sweetheart"; both songs reminds me of K.D. Lang's early days when she was known more for light and slightly quirky songs, complete with yodeling. Other standards covered are "I Fall To Pieces" and "Misty Blue"; both were written in the early and mid-1960's respectively, and it's as if they were tailor-made for Cyndi's amazing voice on them. If you like old-style country and western songs, and find that most of today's country (basically pop music with cowboy hats) just ain't cuttin' it for ya, check this album out. You'll be toe-tapping in no time. Enjoy!

TAX TIPS COLUMN

Filing For An Elderly Parent

FILE A TAX RETURN - Even if they did not earn an income, they could be entitled to other credits, deductions and benefits that are triggered once you file a tax return. For example, they need to file a tax return to receive the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS). And filing late could interrupt the GIS benefit.

Split pension income and save - Seniors are allowed to split up to half of their eligible pension income with a spouse or common law partner. Income splitting can mean a significant tax reduction and when the lower income spouse has very little income, the tax savings can be substantial Transfer amounts : If one parent is unable to completely offset his or her age amount, pension income and disability amount against tax payable, they can transfer their unused portion to the other parent's return.

MEDICAL EXPENSES - It is usually advantageous for medical expenses to be claimed by the lower income spouse, assuming they have tax payable against which to offset them. If your parents travelled to another country and purchased medical insurance for the trip, it is considered a medical expense. If they travelled to obtain medical treatment that was not available where they live, they may be able to claim the cost of transportation, meals and accommodation depending on how far they needed to travel.

BENEFITS FOR CAREGIVERS - : If you have a parent who is dependent on you due to an infirmity and their income is less than $22,996, you may be able to claim the Canada caregiver credit. infirming contrast to previous years, the parent does not have to live with you, but he or she does have to be infirm

DISABILITY TAX CREDIT - If your parent qualifies for the Disability Tax Credit but does not have sufficient taxable income to take advantage of it, they may be able to transfer the unused amount to you. They must depend on you for all or some of the basic necessities of life for the transfer to be allowed.

ATTENDANT CARE PAID TO A RETIREMENT HOME - : A senior who is eligible for the Disability Tax Credit can claim this amount as a medical expense. If they do not qualify for the disability amount, a medical practitioner must certify in writing that the person needs a full time attendant due to mental or physical infirmity and will likely continue to be dependent on others for the long term
