NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

Take 2

PAUL POWER

William Broad, better known as Billy Idol, will turn 70 this year and he's just released his ninth studio album titled 'Dream Into It'. It's been 11 years since his last album, but he did release a 4 song EP in 2021 which was absolutely amazing. Billy rose through the ranks of the punk scene in the late 1970's as the lead singer of the band Generation X and then had huge critical and commercial success in the 1980's. He moved away from the limelight in the 1990's a bit-only releasing 4 albums between 1990 and 2005, but did do some acting. FYI-did you know that director James Cameron originally had Billy in mind to play the T-1000 robot in "Terminator 2-Judgment day" but a serious motorcycle accident in February of 1990 put Billy out of the picture-literally. This is a concept album about Idol's life; it started when he was working on a documentary, "Billy Idol Should Be Dead" with filmmaker Jonas Akerlund. Idol said "with this album, I wanted to really talk about all of my life. Lyrically, I couldn't help but bounce off the documentary, sequencing the album so it told the story of my life." There's 9 songs here; on the opening title track Billy recalls his childhood dreams, and the song '77' is a duet with Avril Lavigne (like the song-don't like her) and it does sound more like one of her songs than his. The song 'Wildside' is a duet with Joan Jett and it is a great number. As for some of the other tracks Billy gets introspective on the uptempo 'People I Love', an apologetic I am who I am. The album is a mix of rock, punk rock, new wave and glam rock and closes out with the great song, 'Still Dancing', which is pure Billy Idol, and it's the best song here. He is indeed still dancing-and still rocking.

Kids Say The Darndest Things

There was an early radio and TV show hosted by Art Linkletter where he interviewed young kids and often had them say funny things or reveal family secrets.

That's similar to what happened in this next story from my troubled past. My father had the habit, when he didn't know a particular person, he would call him "Arsehole McGinty". For example, if a new individual moved into our neighbourhood and did something not approved of by the established crew, my father would say something like, "Arsehole McGinty didn't cut his lawn"

As a young boy of seven, I naturally thought that Mr. McGinty was a real person. The pastor of our church came for a Sunday visit and asked my father if he knew the name of the new neighbour who just moved in.

My father told the pastor, "No, I haven't been introduced to him yet." Hearing this, I immediately piped in, "No daddy, his name is Arsehole McGinty." Needless to say I was banished to my bedroom and my parents had to come up with a good excuse as to my language.

I had the pleasure of meeting Art Linkletter in Prince Edward Island when he was guest speaker for the University of Prince Edward Island Graduation when our daughter graduated.

There is a connection to the Island that he shared with the audience. Art Linkletter's father was an itinerant preacher and often moved around a lot. The Linkletter family lived on the Island until Art was 14 years old before his father moved on. Art said that he remembered fondly his short stay on the island.

In the picture below, you can tell it was a while ago as I had some hair then.

ON A GLUTEN-FREE DIET? - Are you living with celiac disease? Or perhaps your child suffers from gluten allergies? If so, you know all too well that avoiding gluten-based meals is imperative, but not always simple.

The good news? There are excellent gluten-free food alternatives in the market. The bad news is that gluten-free food presents an economic burden, as it's usually more expensive and product availability is greatest in upscale health food stores and restaurants.

Naturally, purchasing these expensive alternatives on a regular basis can add up over the year. With rising food costs brought on by inflation, managing celiac disease poses a potential challenge to families all over the country. On the bright side, it turns out that tax time is your opportunity to recoup some of those food expenses!

Since those suffering from celiac disease need to spend more on food for health and medical reasons, the Canadian government has a program to lessen some of the financial burden. We've answered some common questions on tax credits and support available below.

What do I need to do to claim my gluten-free food expenses? - Food expenses due to allergies can be claimed as medical expenses, though it does take preparation and organization throughout the year. Here are some tips to keep in mind to help come tax time. Make sure that you're eligible to receive this tax return and that it's in line with your doctor's recommendations. To qualify, you'll need to submit a form and letter from a medical practitioner confirming that you or your child has celiac disease and needs a gluten-free diet. Only gluten-free food expenses incurred by someone with a medically documented gluten-allergy can be claimed.

Have receipts on hand for each gluten-free food product that you want to claim. We recommend saving the original receipt in a folder, as well as taking a photo and saving it somewhere safe on your computer to ensure you have back-up. The key is to make this a part of your grocery shopping routine.

You'll need to keep a summary of each gluten-free food product bought during the year that's being claimed, along with the incremental cost and amount to claim. You'll also need to keep tabs on the cost of its conventional version. The dollar amount that'll be returned to you is dependent on the incremental costs that these specialty food products incurred. For example, if the box of gluten-free pasta is $4.00, and its durum-wheat version is $1.00, then you can claim $3.00.
