NEW DECOMPRESSION TABLE RELIEVES PAIN

Darren Strong from Strong Chiropractic, announces a new, sophisticated computerized decompression table that allows the spine to be gently stretched and relaxed for spinal decompression therapy.

The pattern of alternating pulling and relaxing creates vacuum-like pressure which allows disc material that was herniated or protruded to be pulled back in the disc over time.

Patients will notice a reduction of their pain during these treatment sessions. Stop in today and ask about the new table and how you can benefit.

I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus

This story takes place when I was about seven years old. I was at that stage when I began questioning Santa's existence. It seemed an impossible feat that he could deliver all those presents to all the boys and girls in my hometown let alone the World. So, like many children before me, I was determined to stay up and see if Santa really did exist.

I remember my mother tucking me into bed and reminding me I had better get to sleep because everybody knows that Santa won't come if you are awake. So I battled between existing logic and my need to know the truth about Santa Claus. Many of my friends at school were telling me that there was no Santa but I had to prove it myself.

As you can imagine, the harder I tried to stay awake the sleepier I got. I finally drifted off into dreamland where the sugar plum faires danced. I don't know how long I was asleep but I remember waking up by laughter coming from downstairs. I crept slowly to the edge of the landing and peeked through.

To my utter amazement, there was Santa with my mother. I was stunned but happy to finally have the truth about Santa. Not only was he real, but he was here, in my house with my mother. I stayed quiet because I knew Santa had good hearing. I watched it all happen with a feeling of happiness I can barely describe.

However, I knew what had to be done. The truth had to come out. My friends at school were wrong. I had eyewitness evidence and I was on a mission to bring the truth to my friends. Each year as we returned from Christmas break, we were asked by our teacher to write "How I Spent My Christmas Vacation."

Boy, was I ready! I can remember the excitement writing that essay. I kept it all these years and I will try to reproduce it as I wrote it for my teacher.

"How I Spent My Christmas Vacation"

By Emily Morrison Grade 1 - Mrs. O'Grady

I saw Santa Claus at my house over Christmas. I was quiet and watched Santa and mommy having some of Daddy's wine.

He must have been tickling mommy because she was laughing. I think he woke her up because she was in her pagamus.

Santa then kissed mommy and hugged her for a real long time. Then mommy ran upstairs into her bedroom and Santa was chasing her.

I heard more laughing so I guess Santa Claus was still tickling her. I tried to stay awake but I fell asleep with my blanket. But when I woke up, there were all kinds of presents under the tree so that's how I know Santa was at my house.

I was so proud of my story when I brought it home to my mother to have her sign it. She looked at it kind of funny and wrote a little note to the teacher. I showed it to everybody who came to visit that year and they all thought it was fun because they laughed. But I knew Santa was real, I saw him with my own eyes!

Happy New Year

Take 2
PAUL POWER

If you're still in the holiday spirit but may need to shake off any 'headache' you might want to chill by watching 2 slightly off-kilter festive movies: Since 2004 Krampus has been working his way into North American culture as a counter-balance to Santa Claus. The legend of Krampus predates Christianity, and in Europe he's represented as a half-goat/half-demon creature who punished bad children at Christmas. In Germany and Austria it's believed that pagan and Christian elements were combined, and that Krampus was comparable to the Christian devil. 2015's 'Krampus' is a good movie that features actors Toni Collette, Adam Scott and David Koechner, with Emjay Anthony as the young boy who turned his back on Christmas (thanks to his dysfunctional family) thereby conjuring up Krampus, who punishes the non-believers. Loved holiday icons take on an evil life of their own- attacking the household and forcing the extended family to join forces and fight if they want to survive. The Krampus make-up here is amazing. The other nasty yuletide eye-treat is 2015's 'A Christmas Horror Story' that has William Shatner playing radio host "Dangerous Dan" doing his Christmas Eve show, while getting plastered in the process. The movie is actually an anthology of stories, with Santa Claus fighting off zombies, a group of teenagers investigating a haunted site of a murder, a married couple's son who gets replaced by a 'changeling' and a greedy family who has an encounter with our old friend Krampus (great make-up job on this beast too). So if you need to chill and watch something that's a guilty pleasure, shaking off the 'slay bells'-pour yourself a glass of eggnog and cosy up on the couch. These movies are almost as scary as January's Visa bills!

SOME FUNNY CHRISTMAS STORIES

HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY - My nine-year-old son, Gabriel, had heard some rumours at school that Santa wasn't real. He approached me with a big question: "Dad, tell me the truth. Is Santa real?" I decided to tell him it was us who had bought his latest Nintendo Wii game. "Really?" he said. "You should have let Santa bring it. That way, it would have been free."

A CHILD'S RETORT - Some of my favourite childhood memories involve our family's annual trips to the local Christmas tree farm. Although we have an artificial tree at our house, my children are still able to partake in the tradition by accompanying my parents when they cut down their tree.

When I announced we would be helping them pick a tree the following weekend, I expected Ethan, my six-year old, to be excited about the outing. Instead, he furrowed his brow, puzzled, and asked, "What did they do with the one we got them last year?"

STOCKING STUFFERS - One Christmas my husband put an assortment of beauty products in my stocking. I tried one of the facial masks, and was about to wash it off when my eight-year-old son, Callum, walked in. I explained to him that it was a present from his dad and it would make me beautiful.

He patiently waited by my side as I rinsed and patted my face dry. "Well, what do you think?" I asked.

"Oh, Mom, it didn't work!" Callum replied.

MISHEARD LYRICS - When my niece was a student, her class of six-year-olds sang "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" at a Christmas concert. The line "God and sinners reconciled" was a tricky one for this age group.

One little boy, with a voice that completely drowned out the rest of the choir, happily belted out, "God and sinners dressed in style!"

REINDEER'S STORY AT CHRISTMAS - According to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, while both male and female reindeer grow antlers in the summer each year, male reindeer drop their antlers at the beginning of winter. Female reindeer retain their antlers till after they give birth in the spring.

Therefore, according to EVERY historical rendition depicting Santa's reindeer, EVERY single one of them, from Rudolph to Blitzen, had to be a girl.

We should have known... ONLY women would be able to drag a fat man in a red velvet suit all around the world in one night and not get lost.

There's a saying my father used to use, "It's all over but the crying" and I feel the same way about this Christmas break I was able to get out and visit with family and friends and the

Stumpy Goes To Church

Each year we would go to the country for summer vacation. We would gather up various "critters" like frogs, pollywogs, bees and assorted bugs and a snake thrown in for good measure. One summer I captured a chipmunk and over the course of the summer, I was able to tame it. It would run up my leg and sit up and beg for peanuts.

I never tired of this. But when the time came to go back home, my mother laid the law down and said the chipmunk would have to go. I was broken hearted and so I came up with the idea of hiding the chipmunk in my old kitbag and smuggle him home.

I wasn't sure what I was going to do when we got home, but when I let Stumpy out, he skirted away to the trees in our neighbour's yard. I thought he was gone but just around dark, he appeared on the ledge of my bedroom window and I let him in for the night. This was a great solution to my problem. Stumpy would go out each day as I was getting ready for school and return in the evening.

This went on for about two months. I decided that Stumpy was a great pet and started to show him around to the kids in the neighbourhood. One Sunday I carried him to church but I let him out near the band of trees and figured he would follow me home after church.

Mrs. Oakley was the church choir director and played the big pump organ as well. Things were going along fine until the time came to take up the collection. Just as Mrs. Oakley started in on a hymn, Stumpy decided to make his appearance. He ran along the ledge from the window and dropped down on Mrs. Oakley's lap. Stumpy did not have any fear of human beings but the same could not be said for Mrs. Oakley.

She let out a scream that would pierce a steel door. The ushers chased the chipmunk knocking over several items on the altar, the priest became flustered and the congregation were all scattering. Just when I thought I was in the clear, Stumpy ran up my leg and stayed on my shoulder wondering what all the excitement was about.

My mother grounded me for a week but my father never tired of telling the story over and over again. As the weather started to get cold, Stumpy stayed away and he never did return to my window. I only hope he found a mate and would tell her the story of the screaming church organist.
