MUSIC NOTES
BY PAUL POWER

The Rolling Stones - “Totally Stripped” Eagle Vision - This year marks the 21st anniversary of the release of The Rolling Stones 1995 live album “Stripped”, and to commemorate that Eagle Rock Entertainment released this DVD/CD set; the DVD features a documentary that tagged along as the band hit the studio and the rehearsal space in preparation for 3 smaller venue shows in London, Paris and Amsterdam.

Now back to the DVD; on it you can see how The Rolling Stones really wanted to get back to smaller spaces, reconnect with a more intimate audience and let that re-ignite the passion for the more intimate confines of the small stages from their early days. It’s been said that Mick Jagger first developed his famous dance moves (“Moves Like Jagger”) because of the tight confines of the early-day venues. There’s also no question that the trademark

The “Stripped” album gave The Rolling Stones a chance to honour their musical roots with cover songs by blues legend Robert Johnson

grin on Charlie Watts face says it all as Ron Wood, Keith Richards and Mick show us just why they have been called “the greatest rock and roll band in the world” since 1969. and Willie Dixon, rock and roller Buddy Holly (“Not Fade Away”) and to also do stripped-down takes of their own hit songs. The CD here captured a bit of both as well; “Honky Tonk Women”, “Miss You”, “Brown Sugar”, “Midnight Rambler”, “Jumpin Jack Flash”, “Gimme Shelter” and “Street Fighting Man” are all here, as well as the rarely-performed numbers “The Spider and the Fly”, “Far Away Eyes”, and “I’m Free.” The inclusion of a great cover of Bob Dylan’s “Like A Rolling Stone” just seemed so appropriate, especially given the band’s tenure in the music business.

The black and white sequences on the DVD certainly add to the overall quality and enjoyment of the 90 minute production, and there are tons of interview clips and running commentaries by the band-members on the whole undertaking. Behind-the-scenes clips are always a favourite of mine, and the ones included here are really interesting.

Overall, this collection gives us another chance to watch the legends known as The Rolling Stones, and appreciate how they may very well be “the greatest rock and roll band in the world”.
